YPOG advises lead investors on €32 million Series B financing round of One Data

Hamburg, July 24, 2024 – YPOG advised the lead investors Vsquared Ventures, HV Capital and Molten Ventures on the €32 million Series B financing round of One Data, with existing investors also participating again.

The German software company has developed a technology designed to simplify the handling of data. One Data is a data management company founded in Passau in 2013 under the name One Logic. One Data's AI-powered Data Product Builder enables companies to create, manage and share data products while saving around 80% of time. It uses AI technology to collect, analyze and connect data points to increase the quality of insights gained. It supports companies from all industries, including retail, manufacturing, pharmaceuticals, chemicals and automotive. In the DACH region, several large companies rely on One Data's solution, including steel manufacturer Thyssenkrupp, vaccine manufacturer BioNTech and the special glass manufacturer Schott.

One Data will use the funding to further strengthen its leading position in data product management, expand strategic partnerships and extend its software business to new international markets.
